

The PANDA POST

May 2018

CLASSROOM NEWS

Spring has popped up everywhere in the Panda room!! We have been busy creating various types of flowers, planting seeds and even making a paper plate garden! Activities including bugs, caterpillars, and butterflies will soon be added to our classroom bulletin boards. The Pandas also learned about the sequence of events involved in a flower growing. A four-step story was presented as a group activity. The children were invited to make their own sequence strip on the following days. This activity helps develop an understanding of what comes "first, second, third, and fourth," which is the basis for many activities in any given curriculum including those important math skills (by sequencing the story) as well as fine motor skills (coloring the pictures).

Our Dramatic Play Area was converted into a "Flower Shop" where the children pretended to be florists arranging flowers and selling these beautiful arrangements to teachers and friends!

S.T.E.M

You hear a lot about STEM in the classrooms these days. It stands for Science Technology Engineering and Math. Integrating STEM into the preschool classroom aims to teach students to think critically and use engineering or technology in creative approaches to real-world problems.

Just a few of the many STEM experiments and activities this month included:

- 1) planting bulbs in glass jars and observing the growth of the roots and flowers.
- 2) discovering how to use magnifying glasses while exploring decomposing vegetables
- 3) making a classroom graph to determine favorite animals
- 4) measuring the height of plants with cubes
- 5) manipulating ramps on the playground and observing the movement of a ball going down the ramps

SUNSCREEN & BUG REPELLANT

With warmer weather slowly making its appearance, we are taking full advantage of our outside time.

Since a major portion of outside play is in direct sunlight you may want to consider sending in a (labeled) hat and/or sunglasses for your child as well as applying sunscreen and/or bug repellent before coming to school.
